REGGIE WRIGHT
— ENTERPRISE —

Dr. Reggie Wright, a former professional basketball player, has been featured on CNN for his work with educating and empowering students.

He is a high-energy inspirational speaker who is passionate about encouraging students, educators and corporate professionals to cultivate the conditions for success. A native of Trenton, NJ, Dr. Wright grew up knowing what it means to grind and to work hard to overcome opposition and adversity. He attended New Jersey City University, where he played basketball all four years and earned a B.S. in Computer Science. Upon graduating, he played professional basketball in Europe. He later went on to earn a master's degree from Cairn University and a doctorate degree from Liberty University in Educational Leadership. Additionally, he teaches a character development/social-emotional learning curriculum to students. Dr. Wright is the owner and founder of Reggie Wright Enterprise, a mentor for an organization called Raising Black Men and is on the Board of Directors for a non-profit, Urban Promise of Trenton. Dr. Wright is guided by his ethics and passion to serve others and help them achieve success. In his spare time, he enjoys spending time with his family, working out, and is currently writing his first book.
